La Casa es su Casa 2018

La Casa de Don Pedro's signature annual event will be held Tuesday, May 8 at NICO Kitchen + Bar at the New Jersey Performing Arts Center. Join us for what promises to be an enjoyable spring evening in an elegant environment that only NJPAC can provide, all for an important cause!

La Casa es su Casa will celebrate the milestones and honor the heroes who are moving the needle in making New Jersey's communities healthier. Our Theme, "Health Matters" explores the growing awareness about the social determinants of health. It will share La Casa de Don Pedro's role - and responsibility - as a comprehensive, community development organization to help guide our community on a path to progress by addressing all of the factors - from education, housing, employment, social supports, access to health services, and more - to enhance people's quality of life and to allow them to lead healthier, more fulfilling lives.

We are thrilled to announce our two evening's honorees: Dr. Denise V. Rodgers, Vice Chancellor for Interprofessional Programs at Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences and Pamela Clarke, Ph.D., MBA, President & CEO of Newark Community Health Centers. These two pillars of Newark's health community have been paving the way for change in Newark, working to ensure health providers and the public and private sector work together, collaboratively, to move the needle in making Greater Newark a healthy community. Learn more here.

Board Member Spotlight: Journey to the Boardroom With Arcelio Aponte

La Casa de Don Pedro's board member, Mr. Arcelio Aponte, was recently featured as a panelist for a workshop called "Journey to the Boardroom" at Pathways to Success: Boys and Young Men of Color Opportunity Summit held at the Prudential Center on February 27.

Mr. Aponte, Senior Vice Chancellor for Administration and Economic Development and Chief Financial Officer at Rutgers University - Newark, (who also is a Native Newarker) was one of four panelists who spoke to Newark's youth

Mr. Aponte continued his presentation with a few final words. "Be relevant in your work, be relevant in your home, and be relevant in your community. Don't forget to immerse yourself in the things that are important to you, because if you're not relevant and you're not putting your best to the people you care about or the community you care about, then you're not doing anyone justice. My advice is to pursue a career that you're passionate about so you can be relevant in that environment." Mr. Aponte's inspiring words added much value to the conversation that helped empower the young people attending the summit as they move towards the start of their careers.

Featured Community Partner NeighborWorks America: Innovators and Leaders

NeighborWorks America's Senior Vice President of Field Operations, Katie Watts visited La Casa de Don Pedro in February. She commended our comprehensive approach to community development and our dedication to helping the citizens of Newark in whatever they may need.
